Governor James And Others Praise Efforts Of New Castle For Future Expansion

"You gentlemen of Lawrence County have done marvels in meeting your own special depression. The nation as a whole could well afford to take a leaf from your book," thus did Governor Arthur H. James sum up the work of Pioneer Week and what had gone before, in his address Saturday night in the Cathedral.

Approximately 1,000 heard the address in person, and others heard it over the radio. It is doubtful if the governor ever made a more inspiring address in his entire career. He captured the inspiration of a city that will work out its own destiny and capturing the inspiration vitalized the efforts of the citizenry in its efforts to rekindle the fires of hope and courage.

"Hwyl" Describes It

Only one word can describe the address and that word comes from the language of the ancestors the governor proudly boast. The word is "hwyl" and there is no English word that exactly interprets it. There are words that come close and among

Claim Russo-German Propaganda Campaign

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 1 — The U. S. government has indisputable evidence of Russo-German cooperation in a propaganda campaign to discredit President Roosevelt at home and abroad in his conduct of international affairs, an authoritative senate source revealed today.

This member asserted that publication of the Berlin White Book last week picturing Mr. Roosevelt as accessory to war guilt, was only one in a series of attacks planned in an effort to weaken the chief executive's influence.

The president's own comment, it was recalled, was that America must take all foreign propaganda with two grains of salt.

(Editor's note: Berlin dispatches Saturday, based on official sources, forecast issuance of a new White Book containing even more sensational charges against the president.)

Church Bell Is Dedicated

Hopewell Presbyterian Church Tower And Bell Are Restored

SERVICES TAKE PLACE SUNDAY

Dedication of a new church bell at the Hopewell Presbyterian church at New Bedford, to replace the bell which was damaged when lightning struck the church tower on July 10, 1937, took place Sunday morning with appropriate ceremonies, between the Sabbath school and church hour.

The church building was erected in 1892 and dedicated February 9, 1893. There was no bell to call the worshippers to service, however, until 1916, when Mr. and Mrs. David McClenehan presented the congregation with a new bell.

By a strange co-incidence, when fire broke out in the bell tower on Saturday afternoon, July 10, 1937, calling the residents of the community to come and fight the fire which had broken out, it was rung by James Shields, a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. McClenehan, who are now deceased.

Recently, through the efforts of Otha H. Rogers, William Taylor and William Shields, a new frame was erected to receive the new bell. On Saturday, March 23, this group was joined by Clarence Neal, George F. Wortman, Wylie Wallace and Wylie Cooper, and the new bell was placed in position in the tower. A record of the dedication date, with the name of the pastor, Rev. G. Ousley Brown, was placed in the tower.

Germans Report Shooting Down Of Seven French Planes

Fairly Intense Air Activity By Both Sides, Report Indicates

(International News Service)

BERLIN, April 1. — German planes shot down seven French aircraft in three air battles over the western front yesterday, the official German news agency, D. N. B., claimed today, adding no German planes were lost.

The combats ranked among the largest of the war so far. One battle involved 29 planes and the others 16 and 17 each.

"The French war communique last night told of "fairly intense activity of both air forces", but listed no casualties.

According to D. N. B., the first battle occurred over Puettlinger, near the border, when a German craft encountered eight French Morane planes reconnoitering German territory. Eight German Messerschmidts appeared and in the battle two French planes were shot down, said D. N. B.

In the second battle south of Saargemuend nine Messerschmidts attacked 20 French Moranes, shooting down two, while in the third fight, over Moerchingen, eight German craft battled an equal number of French fighters.

Three of the French planes fell in this combat, the German agency stated, while the other French planes retreated.

A German high command war communique stated that several French prisoners were captured in land skirmishes along the western front.

New Theories In College Girl's Death Develop

Police Hint Possibility Girl May Have Been Run Down By Car

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 1.—A new and sensational angle arose today in the Rachel Taylor sex slaying as it was reliably laerned that Pennsylvania state police were considering the possibility that a woman may have been the brutal killer of the 17-year-oid Wildwood, N. J., freshman.

By TOM R. BRISLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 1.—Two new theories occupied the attention of state police here today as they sought to unearth some tangible clue to the identity of the sex-fiend responsible for the brutal slaying of 17-year-old Rachel Taylor, Pennsylvania State College co-ed, last Thursday.

With the elimination of the state's chief suspect, Nagle P. Young, 35-year-old State College heating contractor, Commissioner of Motor Police Lynn G. Adams and his crew of officers were reported checking further into these possibilities:

1. That a sex-crazed motorist deliberately ran down the girl, and later mutilated her body.

2. That the killer might possibly have been a youth from a CCC camp near Milesburg, about 20 miles from State College.

Clues Are Lacking

Miss Taylor, daughter of a well-to-do Wildwood, N. J., fish dealer, was found savagely beaten to death about four miles from the school campus, and state police admitted they had run up against a stone wall in their efforts to track down the vicious slayer.

Adams declared he was "convinc-

Blockade Will Be Intensified Against Nazis

Report Chamberlain To Announce New Policy To Commons Tuesday

London Paper Says Britain To Strike At Supply Of Iron Ore At Once

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 1.—Outlines of a new Anglo-French policy aimed at intensification of the blockade against Germany will be placed before the house of commons tomorrow by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, authoritative British quarters indicated today.

Included in the plans of the allies is adoption of a new policy and attitude toward neutral nations, and some of the new measures to be taken in this connection also will be revealed by the prime minister, it was anticipated. Chamberlain also will report on results of last week's meeting of the allied war council.

What form this new British pressure against Germany will take was boldly hinted by the British press, which indicated that Britain may disregard "some aspects" of international law in the fight against the Reich.

Nevertheless, a British government spokesman denied reports that Britain plans to "violate international law." But the spokesman said the blockade is likely to be intensified in future.

To Stop German Ore Traffic

"Britain is going to stop German iron ore traffic through Norwegian territorial waters," said the London News Chronicle.

"This traffic, which is of vital importance to Germany's war effort and which hitherto has been carried on with impunity under cover of Norwegian neutrality no longer will be tolerated, even if its stoppage involves some technical infringements of international law."

The Daily Telegraph took a somewhat less sanguinary line, stating:

Man Smothered In Cement Plant

Frank Slavich, Of Bessemer, Meets Death At Bessemer Plant This Morning

Frank Slavich, aged 42, of Bessemer, was smothered to death this morning, when he was crushed under an avalanche of crushed limestone at the Bessemer Limestone company's cement plant early this morning. His body was recovered at 6:30 o'clock. Death was due to suffocation, Coroner T. Frank Nugent stated.

Slavich had been working with Vinco Puz, in the storage room at the plant, where the crushed limestone is fed to a conveyor system which takes it to the cement kilns. Puz left him for a few minutes at 4 o'clock, and on his return missed Slavich. He looked for him about the mill and when he failed to find him, notified his foreman.

When Slavich could not be located, it was decided to dig in the loose limestone under the storage bin, where his body was finally found.

Slavich is said to have a wife and son living in Austria. The nearest relative in this country is said to be a cousin who resides at Struthers, Ohio.

Flood Waters Are Subsiding

Four Deaths Are Caused In Western End Of State By High Water

PITTSBURGH HAS STAGE OF 28.5 FEET

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, April 1 — Flood waters subsided in the Pittsburgh area today after causing at least four deaths in the western end of the state. At the "Point," in downtown Pittsburgh, where the Monongahela and the Allegheny join together, the rivers hit a crest of 28.5 feet—3.5 above flood stage — and ebbed.

Water inundated low land sections in suburban districts but left the river — paralleling streets on the edge of the "Golden Triangle" untouched. Several communities were marooned temporarily and transportation was hampered considerably.

Death Toll

The dead were:

Bobby Clawson, five, of Leechburg, who fell into the surging Kiskiminetas while skipping stones with two companions near his home.

Mrs. Ellen Pearl Huey Keffer, 34, of Florence, Washington county, who was drowned in the Youghiogheny river near Connellsville when the car in which she, her husband, two sons and a nephew were riding, skidded from the road.

Edith Stewart, 19-months, who fell into Brush creek, while playing along the bank at Armazh, 19 miles from Johnstown.

Harry Franklin McCulley, who toppled from a swinging bridge into raging Laurel Hill creek at Ursina, Somerset county.

Mrs. Keffer sacrificed her own life so that her children might be saved. When the car slid into the river, she screamed "save the boys." William, 16, helped a young brother reach safety, then he and the nephew, Willian Lancaster, 46, pulled Mr. Keffer from the submerged machine. The woman was dead when rescued.

Wilkes-Barre Is Center Of Worst Flood Damage

Plymouth, Home Town Of Governor James, Is Reported As Flooded

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. April 1.—The Susquehanna river, on a destructive rampage for two days, was believed to have approached its crest shortly before 10 a. m. today when flood waters rose to 31.45 feet above low water mark.

Flood conditions in Pennsylvania, Ohio and other states today continued to cause concern. The situation area, where the Susquehanna river had risen to a dangerously high stage, became more acute when a leaking gasoline storage tank and a broken dike at nearby Kingston threw thousands into a panic.

The inflammable contents of the tank spread over the swollen river. Wilkes-Barre hotels were crowded with people who fled from their homes. Many stores were closed.

At mid-morning the river stage was 31.23 feet, compared with the record crest of 33.3 feet established in the spring of 1936.

Damage Slight At Pittsburgh

In the Pittsburgh area much inconvenience was caused as a result of the "flash flood" that swept on down the Ohio river. Damage, however, was not reported as heavy.

At Steubenville, O., flood warnings this morning brought prompt mobilization of Red Cross workers.

Nazi Germany Makes New Accusations

Charges U. S. Is Violating Laws

Own Neutrality Laws Being Broken Is Statement Of Germany

CONTROVERSY ON 'WHITE PAPER RAGES

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, April 1.—Threatening to let the American congress decide for itself the authenticity of its white paper accusing the United States of fostering Europe's war, Germany today charged that the American government has been violating its own neutrality laws.

Diplomatic Correspondence, organ of the German foreign office, carried the dispute between Berlin and Washington a step further by commenting:

"The surprising and even monstrous fact must be noted that representatives of a power, in principle strongly opposed to interference with other continents since the days of Washington and Monroe, is now engaging in aggravating the conflict's danger to third powers.

"These amateur diplomatics are even more conceivable because they are diametrically opposed to the (American) neutrality laws."

It was understood the German government is considering dispatching the original documents that formed the basis of the white paper to the German embassy in Washington which would submit them to congress for scrutiny. Another plan reportedly under consideration is extension of an invitation for a American commission in Berlin.

ed that the murderer ran down the girl with an automobile." To lend credence to his theory, he disclosed that tire abrasions were found under the girl's right thigh. A corps of officers spent most of Sunday checking the underpinning of automobiles in the vicinity of State College and nearby Bellefonte, hunting for blood stains, pieces of clothing or other clues that might lead to the slayer.

This theory, however, was dimmed by the statements of two young men that they saw petite Miss Taylor halt in front of a garage near her dormitory, switch her bag and coat from arm to arm, and cross the street to a point only a stone's throw from the building. Had an automobile struck her within the next few minutes, it appeared doubtful that the hub of the car hitting the body, if not a scream, would not have been heard.

Meanwhile, a citizens' committee of more than 50 State College residents gave Young, who had been held incommunicado for 36 hours before being released late Saturday night, a vote of confidence. He had been arrested in Philadelphia on a porter's tip, and state police checked his alibi thoroughly before quashing a technical charge against him.

Young, through his attorney, Edward Willard, insisted he was not mistreated or abused in any way while being held, despite rumors to the effect that he was "sweated, beaten and given the third degree."

"Mr. Young holds no malice, or ill-will toward anyone as a result of being held for investigation," Willard said.

Late Saturday night, Young told Adams:

"I hope the error in my case will not deter police authorities from locating those responsible for the death of Rachel Taylor."

The heating contractor was picked up when a porter noticed what he had believed to be blood stains on Young's clothing when the State College man arrived in Philadelphia from the central Pennsylvania community.

BLOCKADE WILL BE INTENSIFIED AGAINST NAZIS

"The allies neither desire nor intend to infringe upon international law, but the safety of Britain and France, and indeed of neutrals themselves, demands introduction of new methods of blockade."

The Telegraph contended that because of German "violation" of neutral waters "we must naturally set a limit to our endurance of Nazi contempt for the rules of war."

Well informed quarters stated the plans under contemplation call for rationing of Germany's neutral neighbors to prevent them from importing abnormal supplies. At present these countries are passing the surpluses along to Germany.

Under this scheme such neutral countries as Holland, Denmark and others would be limited to imports fitting their own normal needs.

WILKES-BARRE CENTER OF WORST FLOOD DAMAGE

Rivermen predicted a crest of from 38 to 40 feet as they aided in plans to evacuate families.

The river was rising at points from Portsmouth to Cincinnati, a distance of approximately 145 miles.

In New York state the situation seemed to be improving, although a number of upstate roads were inundated.

From far-away California came reports of river rampages in the northern part of the state. More than 100,000 acres in the Sacramento valley were under water.

Numerous Deaths

Six deaths on the west coast were attributed to the storm. Four persons died in up-state New York. Two small boys were drowned in Michigan. One death was reported in Wilkes-Barre. Four persons were trapped and drowned in western Pennsylvania.

Red Cross officials were supervising the evacuation of between 1,500 and 2,000 persons in low-lying sections of the Wyoming valley at Wilkes-Barre where the Susquehanna reached 27.42 feet above the low water mark last night.

Twelve huge self-bailing boats were dispatched from New York to Wilkes-Barre by the coast guard. A coast guard plane took off from New York yesterday to survey the flood area but was unable to land because the Wilkes-Barre field was water-logged and returned.

At Pittsburgh, the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers reached a crest of 28.53 feet last night, more than three feet over the 25-foot flood stage, and then began receding. Only nominal damage by slight flooding of low-lying sections was caused.

Other streams in western Pennsylvania similarly rose to flood levels and then began slowly receding.

Governor's Town Hit

Thousands of families in Wilkes-Barre and the nearby communities of Plymouth, home of Gov. Arthur H James, and Nanticoke, Edwardsville and Breslau were thrown into panic by the rising Susquehanna. The river rose more than 18 feet in 24 hours yesterday. The scenes were reminiscent of the 1936 flood when the Susquehanna reached a stage of 33 feet, 20,000 persons were marooned and $10,000,000 in property damage was caused.

Wilkes-Barre residents were warned to be ready to leave on short notice. Several hundred families were evacuated in boats and housed in public buildings last night. Many moved their furniture to upper floors. Business men worked all day removing their stocks to safe quarters.

New damage was threatened in Williamsport, Pa., by the Susquehanna on the eve of a special election on a $175,000 bond issue for flood control.

Low-lying houses were flooded at Scranton, Pa.

At Johnstown, the "Flood City", the Conemaugh and Stony Creek rivers reached a crest of 16 feet four inches and then receded. Business district basements were flooded.

Southern New York was temporarily threatened with grave danger but the streams began receding after reaching near flood levels. The southern section of Syracuse was flooded by Onondaga creek. Several families were rescued in row boats. Traffic was closed in 20 city blocks. Three bridges at Binghamton were closed by the rising waters of the Susquehanna and Chenango rivers.

STATE EMPLOYES TELL OF PAYMENTS

attended noonday meetings of state employes at the headquarters of the Dauphin county Democratic committee and were told to pay their assessments, which earlier witnesses have testified totaled from three to five per cent of their salaries.

Miss Stouffer quoted Frank R. Hean, county committee office manager and a defendant, as telling the group that "it was our duty to obtain as much support as possible for the Democratic party. If we lost the election our dismissals would be in the next morning's mail if our assessments were not paid up."

On another occasion, Miss Stouffer testified, another defendant, William B. Freeland, county finance committee member, warned her that "I was back in my payments and if anybody wanted my job and paid up they could have it."

SERVICE
Service, not only preached but practiced by us, has built up our Wholesale Department, year after year, and also has helped our Retail Department.
Our Wholesale Department makes it possible for every Funeral Director in this community to give better service to his patrons, as it places him in a position to show a large number of caskets and funeral supplies than it would be possible for any one single Funeral Director to keep in stock.
This is what we call service to the public through the Funeral Director.

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments include charges at Household's rate of 2¼% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law.

H. E. HENDERSON, PRESIDENT

When you borrow at Household Finance, you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. The sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.58 each, or a total of only $106.32, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. (Payments shown in the table include all charges. You pay nothing more.)

One rate to everyone

Household charges only one rate —the same to everyone, whether new customer or former borrower.

All you do to borrow

All you do to get a Household Finance loan is to acquaint us with your problem. We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. (Loans are made on furniture, car or note.) No questions regarding your credit are asked of friends or relatives —and you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers with you. You get the money you need in a simple, private transaction.

Fair treatment

Household shows every consideration to the borrower faced with sickness or unemployment while paying on a loan. Last year Household foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 10,000 loans—an action taken then only as protection against fraud.

Find the loan you need in the first column of the table and read across. See how you can repay your loan with a small part of your pay check. Then phone or visit us. You will be under no obligation to borrow.

SKATING CLUB DINNER PARTY

Swan Lake Rusty Blades ice skating club members of Ellwood City, assembled at a popular suburban tea room Saturday evening for their first social meeting. Guests numbering 31, were served a delicious chicken dinner.

Following, the program opened with the singing of the club theme song, composed by Jaul Jennings, and Mrs. Harold Nimmo played the accompaniment on the accordian. Robert Gettings also pleased with several accordian selections. Paul Jennings served as toastmaster.

William Latimer gave an interesting discussion of events of recent years at Swan Lake, and plans for the future.

A presentation of awards, which will be on display in the club house and again to be presented to those most deserving in the coming years, featured the closing hours. Those receiving awards were Flic Kerr, Joseph Walsh, of Ellwood City, Harold Walton and Edward Shellogg

The committee in charge of arrangements was Paul Jenning, Sally Mears, Mr. and Mrs. Latiano, Mr. and Mrs. John Sumners and Mr. and Mrs. Harley Mascrey.

Sewing was a pastime and a mock wedding took place with Miss Mary Hromyak as the bride and Mrs. Ann Komarc, the groom. Miss Genevieve Wilk provided the music.

Lunch was served by the hostess mother and Mrs. Mary Sniezek. Special guests were Mrs. S. Stewart of Enon Valley and Mrs. Virginia Lombardo.

PROSPECT FOR CIVILIZATION'S FUTURE

CIVILIZATION and democracy are not quite as fragile as some of their more fearful friends and champions seem to believe. They possess enduring qualities which insure their survival even though the world goes haywire, every so often and indulges in a saturnalia of human destruction.

It is heartening, accordingly, to hear an occasional lusty voice of dissent when the prophets of doom, gazing through dark glasses darkly, envision a pessimistic future, including, among other things, the end of the democratic ideal and the breaking up of civilization on the rocks of totalitarian ideologies.

The new war has caused an increase in the ranks of those who view the future with alarm and who fear that the end is close at hand. They doubt that civilization can stand the new strain and, in gloomy resignation, they await the end. Happily, an occasional note of hope is sounded to lift man out of the depths and this time it comes from President James Bryant Conant of Harvard University.

"We don't face the end by a jugful," Dr. Conant says. Naturally, he believes, the war will bring suffering to hundreds of thousands of persons, but civilization itself is in no danger. "Our present generation will go on being educated for social conditions in the future which will not be unlike social conditions in the past. Democracy will survive the wars of the present, just as it has survived the wars of the past, and civilization will continue to go forward."

One of the principal reasons for a spirit of defeatism is lack of familiarity with history, which is replete with wars—the seven years war, the thirty years war, the hundred years war; in fact, war after war almost without interruption or end. In this age war is less of a chronic evil than it has been in the past. In this fact alone there is evidence of civilization's progress.

OLD SOL WILL SURVIVE

Don't start worrying about the sun just because there have been a few tornadoes up there raging across some 100,000 miles of its surface. That's a puny distance on the solar map, and nothing to make us fearful that the heat's going to be turned off.

True, Old Sol is an undersized and anemic star as stars go. Astronomers put it in the "dwarf" category, which is a kind of bush league among the billlions of stars that inhabit the cosmos.

The earth's diameter is 8,000 miles—the sun's 864,000. Its mass is 332,000 times that of the earth. Every second the sun gives off radiation equivalent to a loss of mass of 4,000,000 tons, and astronomers figure that it can sustain that loss for millions of years without serious inroads.

As the world's "central heating system," the sun shows no sign of playing out. Its surface is about 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit—cool compared to the interior, which is estimated at some 1,000,000 degrees. These figures can better be appreciated along about next July or August.

IMPORTANT PATENT DECISION

Probably no more important decision has been rendered in recent times by the Supreme Court of the United States than that finding the owner of a patented article can not fix the retail sales price of that article by compelling the holder of his license in selling such article to observe the sales price the patent owner has determined upon.

The court held that this was in restraint of trade and in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. The decision was by a unanimous court. The opinion opposes one of the many privileges to which owners of a patent under the law of the land believed themselves constitutionally and statutorily entitled.

Will the decision of the court be operative at once? Probably not. For the privilege of patent in America is an exceedingly hard nut for the court to crack. Under the law and under this decision the owner of a patent still can license certain dealers to sell the patented article. If a licensed dealer cuts the sales price the patent owner can refuse to renew the license at its expiration and so preserve the price he has set himself.

It will require enactment of a law by congress to change this by modifying a very ancient custom which ordains that a merchant has the right to choose his own customer for any reason whatsoever.

RECORD FOR AIR SAFETY

High water mark for aviation safety in the United States was reached on March 26. On that date the air lines in the United States completed a full calendar year without a single fatality. Even more remarkable is the fact that in 366 days, this being leap year, not a passenger, crew member or bystander was seriously injured.

Altogether 2,028,817 passengers flew a total of 87,325,145 plane miles. Half of the flying was by night. All told, it was equivalent to ten trips around the world at the Equator every day.

Such a record as this deserves powerful emphasis, as do the factors that made it possible—better planes, better flying, better maintenance, improved application of meteorology. The results ought to bring reassurance to those who hitherto have been physically earthbound. Most individuals number among their friends persons who think the conquest of the air a marvelous thing, but for themselves declare: "You'll never get me up in a plane!"

As time progresses the number of the fearful will diminish, particularly as youth, generally speaking, has no such inhibitions. Man's ability to traverse a new element with safety is a miracle of the Twentieth Century, but it is fast becoming a common-place. Soon fear of the air should be as rare as that of a United States official who, as late as 1909, was almost incredibly afraid to use a telephone—lest he get a fatal shock.

Hitler wants Mussolini to throw a lot of troops on the French border to divert French troops from the West Wall. Benito, however, doesn't like practical jokes of the April fool variety.

All firearms will be confiscated during the forthcoming presidential election in Mexico. In the United States no such action is required, for what could be more disarming than a presidential candidate?

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD'S RIGHTS IN DIVORCE

Death of one or both parents is obviously hazardous to the welfare of the young child. But, as a rule, divorce and the unhappy parent-parent relationship leading to it are far more hazardous.

Within the last five years teachers in different parts of the United States have volunteered to me the information that they are discovering many of their problem children to be from "broken" homes.

One high school teacher said. "I so often find the unhappy, troublesome youths come from unhappy or divorced homes that I have made it a habit to inquire into the home of all my students who seem to be poorly adjusted at school. While I can't hope to change the home, I can understand the youth better." I wish more teachers cultivated this excellent habit.

Older Child Suffers Most

It is the child old enough to sense what is happening, especially the teen-age child, who suffers most over tense parent-parent relationships, conflicts or the final break. Painful as it must be for the child to live in an atmosphere in which one parent must have constant irritation from the other, the severest pain must come to him when he observes that one parent is cultivating a new love interest. Indeed, this new love interest is often, maybe generally, the beginning of all the troubles.

Consider the ignominy the child must endure as he hears the gossip and eventually learns the exposures in the courtroom incident to divorce. But the child's heartache doesn't end there. He is at the mercy of the court, to be assigned like chattel to one parent or the other; or to be tossed between the two like a football, part-time with one parent, part-time with the other—about the cruelest thing a judge can do.

And that is not all. Each separated parent, striving "to get even", may selfishly try to stir up hate in the child toward the other parent, when he probably loves both of them.

It is not my lot to condemn those parents who don't get on well together or who are divorced. In their place I don't know how I might feel or act. I must be charitable; yet, my heart goes out to the suffering child. I must plead for him. If his rights and feelings were more carefully considered by parents, I'm sure there would be fewer divorces, even fewer strained relations.

I should like to beg my fellow parents, if and when divorce does come, to keep uppermost in mind the child's welfare. I believe that by taking thought about the child or children involved, we parents all have strong reasons to work hard, not only to stick together but to live together, abundantly, companionably and happily.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Is it good practice for day school teachers to serve as teachers in Sunday school?

A. Generally good for the Sunday school but often hard on the teacher. For some teachers it is just too much. Some day boards of education may reward teachers for serving in the community as Sunday school teachers, or leaders in scout, Y or other youth groups.

LINGUISTICS

Most Americans know, by actual contact or hearsay, that east of the Alleghenies and south of the Ohio people do not pronounce the letter "r" after a vowel unless another vowel follows, and that cornpicking in Iowa is called "shucking" corn in Missouri.

But it took the German-American college professor to wake up the language experts to the idea of recording and analyzing these differences in our speech, before radio, movies, newspapers, and other unifying forces "shift and fray the linguistic boundaries of earlier times."

Professor Hans Kurath, now at Brown University, is leading spirit and editor of the most ambitious cooperative project for linguistic atlas of America. He and his two foundations and half a dozen colleges already have put eight year's work on it, and just one volume of maps and an accompanying handbook—dealing with New England—is out yet.

Historically, the American tongue is an outgrowth of New England speech, which itself was derived from the dialect of the English counties around London and East Anglia. Practically, England and New England alike now speak minor variants of the great midwestern American.

The board "a" of the Bostonian is confined more and more to a narrowing upper crust and even the dropped "r's" are beginning to creep back. The linguists and their aluminum recordings and their international phonetic alphabet which distinguishes 12,000 shades of sound will have to hurry.

My friend Garda has more sex appeal than any other girl I know and her formula as confided to me includes this item:

"I never allow any man to suspect that I am tired. I never "languor" around when a caller is present. I always schedule my engagements to give me ample time for relaxation before my date arrives. To meet modern competition, a girl must always appear vital and peppy whether she feels so or not. Nothing repels the male of the species like a drooping body, a draggy walk."

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: I am engaged to be married and I would like to know what I should have in my hope chest, in the way of linens, etc.—M. G.

Answer: Linens of every description. Bedroom linens should include sheets, pillow cases, bedspreads, blankets and quilts; bureau and dresser covers. Towels of all classes are necessary—small, dainty guest towels; hand, face and bath towels; face cloths, bath mats and dish and hand towels for your kitchen.

Your most important household linen is that for your dining room. Every bride should posses large and small damask table cloths with napkins to match; breakfast, luncheon and tea cloths with accompanying napkins; doilies for bread and cake plates; scarfs or covers for the dining table, buffet, serving table. The quality of each should depend upon your social life, how much entertaining you will do and how much you wish to spend for laundry.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

What's What At A Glance

Farley's Ambitions Are Not Clear
May Only Be After Vice Presidency
Believe He Doesn't Want First Chair

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 1.

It isn't quite clear whether James A. Farley is campaigning for the Democratic presidential or vice presidential nomination. At least, nominally it's the presidential nomination that he's after. However, plenty of politicians say they think it's the vice presidential nomination he genuinely is toying to get. Not, of course, that anybody imagines he won't accept first place if he's named for it, but lots of good guessers are of the opinion that he doesn't really believe the party will pick him to head its ticket.

His candidacy, either way, places him in the position of a Roosevelt-ian anti-third termer. If he's presidentically selected, Roosevelt necessarily is foreclosed against. And, as a New Yorker, he can't be vice presidentially chosen if the present White House tenant, also a New Yorker, gets a third bid.

Washington's favorite betting is that Jim's honest-to-goodness aim is to get onto the ticket as the tail to a Cordell Hull or a John N. Garner kite. It generally is assumed that he'd prefer Hull, because it's surmised that he regards the latter as more of a probability than Garner. He'd be a pretty good second to either one. He wouldn't combine so logically with any more pronounced a New Dealer than one of these two. Even Burton K. Wheeler, while anti-New Dealerish in spots, is much too liberal to go well with Jim.

Hull and Garner

And, from Jim's standpoint, Hull and Garner would be almost equally satsifactory "first-placers" because both are reasonably old. One or the other of them might die in office, letting Jim automatically slide into the vacancy.

Heaven forbid that anybody should suspect Jim of counting on anything like that. Such things do happen, though.

Ernest K. Lindley, the colmunist, certainly raised hades with his recent yarn to the effect that President Roosevelt had told an unnamed "stalwart Democratic statesman" that he (the president) wasn't a third term aspirant but that he didn't think Farley would do, on religious grounds.

After some days delay, Roosevelt, as we know, spoke of this story as "made up out of whole cloth." It amounted to classifying that spiel among "short and ugly words".

All right, we're expected to take what the president says as Gospel. Nevertheless, Ernest Lindley has been known, among White House correspondents, as particularly close to the president. He likewise is an exceptionaly reliable chap. He stands pat. He insists that his account was correct. He hesitates a trifle at applying the "short and ugly word' that the president implies, but that's what it amounts to.

Would Jim Hear It?

Now, let's not, for a minute, suggest that President Roosevelt wasn't quite right in terming that Lindley interview a phoney.

But suppose, for the sake of argument, that the president had had some such chat with a "stalwart Democrat" as Ernest describes. Isn't it possible that said "stalwart" would have leaked it to Jim Farley as well as to Ernest?

And wouldn't it have been calculated to make Jim sore?

True, the "stalwart" may have been the Ananias. He may have made the entire yarn up out of "whole cloth"—telling it to Jim Farley and Ernest Lindley alike.

Yet, if that's what he did, his scheme worked middling well. He pulled off an excellent line of publicity for whatever target he may be shooting at.

There are Democratic stalwarts and stalwarts. Some are New Deal stalwarts and some are "antis". If an "anti" hit on this scheme to split the party, he had a bright idea.

Ernest Lindley has the key to the thing. Let him tell the source of his alleged information. But an ethical newspapeprman can't do that.

WARNING ALL FATHERS

"Beware!" I cry to fathers grave,
"Beware this April day!
Be wise and wary and behave
In caution's guarded way.
Trust not those lovely twinkling eyes
That glisten like a pool,
For back of them today there lies
The snares to catch a fool!

"You solemn fathers of the land
Take warning now from me
Put by today your manners grand
Lest humbled you will be.
Be careful how you take your soup,
Make sure that it is cool,
Or else that merry plotting group
Will take you for a fool.

"Today the purse that's in your path
Before your grasp will fly,
No doubt to set on fire your wrath
They'll knot your favorite tie.
They'll pin the lining of your sleeve
Before they start to school
And then in glorious make-believe
Call you an April fool.

"Beware this April day," I cry
To fathers one and all
"Lest for our youngsters lurking by
And all their arts we fall.
Today if is our chief concern
At home or when afar
To be on guard lest they will learn
What fools we really are!"

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Except for a few chilly days which startled the natives as they had not been startled since Ponce de Leon, Florida has enjoyed the most prosperous season since before the Year of the Big Wind. It harvested its biggest crop of tourists in fifteen years. This was due in part, of course, to the fact that thousands of folks with money to spend didn't want to go to Europe, but mostly due to Florida's own charms.

Lots of important things are down on the enchanted peninsula, even if Congress doesn't give the Floridans that canal they yearn for. The United States Government is appropriating many millions of dollars to make the peninsula the Gibraltar of the southern seas, pointing, as it does, like a finger toward Cuba, between the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean.

The greatest thing taking place down in the state of sunshine now is its rapid rise in importance in national defense. The United States Navy is now building a $15,000,000 air-base, which will be the largest in the country. It is being constructed on the banks of the beautiful and historic St. John's River. The main base will be located a few miles south of Jacksonville, on the site of Camp Johnson, where troops were trained for the World War. A carrier basin, capable of accommodating two huge airplane carriers, will be located at the mouth of the river in Ribault Bay, where Jean Ribault and his French Huguenots landed in 1561.

A clear view of the carrier basin will be available from the 600-foot wide motoring and bathing beach of hard white sand, a beach which stretches south from the river for thirty miles without a break. Besides all this, an army training center is being developed 26 miles south of Jacksonville on a tract of 50,000 acres. It will be the outstanding tactical training area for all branches of the service.

Other new developments of the past few months, which have made beautiful Florida an all-important key defense of the nation, are the establishment of the naval auxiliary station on Banana River, the Army air-field at Tampa, the expansion of the Pensacola Air station and the submarine base and naval repair station at Key West. If trouble ever came to us from the sea, then Florida would be the outpost of our national security.

There were only four big waterfront hotels on Miami Beach a few years ago, but today the waterfront looks like Atlantic City. They sprout overnight. Few de luxe estates are going up. The whole trend is toward one-story bungalows poured in your favorite colors while you wait and within the reach of the average man's pocketbook. The bungalow looks like a mail order shack when the builder finishes, but the purchase of thirty yards of flowering vine, six Grade A cocoanut trees and a few square yards of grass make it strictly a "casa" affair.

Florida is no longer the playground of the rich. It is the mecca, the haven for the moderately well-to-do, and even for those who have to count their nickels but who can

Lottery Plan Used In Olden Days Here

So Reports City Engineer Throop In Discussing Official Survey

SYSTEM IS ACCURATE AND KEPT UPTODATE

By G. R. THROOP
City Engineer

During the year of 1898 the Common and Select Council of New Castle realized that the city had to prepare an official survey of all the streets, streams, property and topography of the land within the city limits. At this time the city was expanding rapidly and numerous lands were being subdivided, streets located and lots sold. Most of these maps were rather sketchy affairs and very little surveying was done on the ground to locate the property accurately. What these maps lacked in accuracy they made up in fancy drawing and elaborate titles. A good example of one of these maps is the one prepared by Thomas Doran of Philadelphia in 1855. This map was a lithograph, the original of which was cut in stone. There are very few copies of this map now in existence and some years ago we prepared an exact copy as a record.

An interesting fact concerning the selling of these lots was that it was done by lottery in some sections. We have a map showing the property in the vicinity of the public square. Each lot has been given a number and when most of the lots were sold the buyers drew numbers which entitled them to a free lot of their choice of those remaining in the plot.

Then subdivisions such as the Whippo Addition, the Pollock Addition, the Falls Tract and numerous others soon made application to be taken into the city. Their request was granted and as a result the city consisted of numerous inaccurately drawn plats.

This condition resulted in the decision to prepare an accurate map. Real work started in 1903 when the city secured the services of Stephen S. Gano, an engineer of wide experience in surveys of the type required. The accurate location of the physical properties, streets, alleys, streams, etc., and the preparation of the maps required about five years. Besides the actual ground survey work, each property deed had to be copied from the court house records and fitted onto the maps and the dimensions calculated to agree with the property bounding it.

The official city survey as finally completed consists of one hundred maps, 36 by 42 inches, number from 1 to 100 and are referred to as "sections." Each property has its individual number called "City Lot Number." These two numbers are included in the deeds of every parcel of property in the city, of which there are some 26,000. With the system of numbering used there can be no duplication and the numbers being known can be located very quickly. In addition to this number there appears on the map the dimensions of each property line, the name of the subdivision or plan of lots in which the property was located originally, the street or house number of the property and the owners name.

Must Be Recorded

In addition to the property data there is shown the streets and alleys and the direction they extend in reference to North.

The survey is placed in the engineering department and it is their duty to keep this data correct and up-to-date at all times. Every property that changes ownership is divided or changed in any way, within the city must be recorded. The original deed to be filed in the court house by the registrar and recorder is sent to the office of the city engineer and an exact copy of the deed made and filed. The name of the previous owner is then erased from the maps and the new owner's name inserted. In the deed registry book the name of the new owner is recorded under the section and lot number of that particular piece of property.

These maps are corrected every day or immediately upon receipt of a deed.

Three maps of each of the 100 sections are kept at all times, the original drawings, and two copies which are kept up to date. One set is kept for use of the public, while the original and one corrected copy are kept in a fireproof vault.

From the data on these maps all improvements such as street paving, sanitary sewers, storm sewers, etc., are located and tied in with property and other improvements.

The sizes of property shown are used by the city and county assessors in making their valuations. In fact all departments of the city use the maps for one purpose or another.

The value of this survey to the entire city is incalculable as much of the information contained in the original and that added in past years could not be reproduced for any amount of money. Some idea of its value can be realized when nearly every day something is added. Great care must be exercised in adding information and every figure accurately checked before it is made part of the permanent record.

It has been my privilege to investigate the surveys of numerous cities and as yet have found nothing to improve ours. In fact a number of cities have adopted the New Castle system exactly.

Right-of-way agents of various utility companies, whose work is with city surveys, have complimented the city on having so simple, yet accurate survey of our lands, and the system under which it is kept up to date.

A vast amount of credit must be given to the old common and select council in securing the services of an engineer of the caliber of Stephen S. Gano, whose accuracy gave us the firm basis information and data on which we have built with confidence the official city survey as it stands today.

Local Family Is Located Through Red Cross Service

Mr. And Mrs. Philip Klafter Are Found In Hungary Following Search

Inquiry and Information Service established by the American National Red Cross and used by the Lawrence County Chapter has been successful in locating another New Castle family.

In February the chapter office was asked to locate Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Klafter who sailed from the United States May, 1939, and from whom no word has been received by the relatives.

Many letters passed back and forth and this week the chapter was advised the State Department has been informed by the American Legation at Budapest that Mr and Mrs. Phillip Klafter are in Hungary and their address is Roskovics Park 14, Ungvar.

On December 28, 1939, Mr. Klafter was at the American Legation having his passport validated for future residence.

This is the fourth successful case the Lawrence County Chapter has handled, but there are many cases still unheard from. As conditions are changing so rapidly it is a task for the International Red Cross to meet the heavy demand made upon it by the many chapters making inquiries.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

The French call them "poissons d'avril," the Scotch "April-gowks."

In this country they are known as "April Fools."

It is quite harmless fun to be fooled on April First.

There are many persons who would fool us throughout the year.

They would tell us that wearing amber beads will prevent goiter.

Or carrying a horse chestnut will prevent or cure rheumatism.

That chapped lips are cured by kissing a fence rail.

Or cut baby's finger nails short so he will not grow up to a thief.

A bag of asafetida worn about the neck is prescribed for diphtheria.

These are but primitive beliefs for primitive peoples.

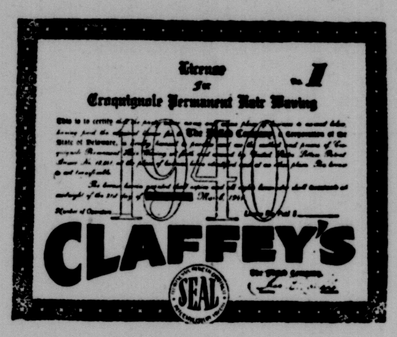

They are dangerous in so far as they delay practical medical aid.

Some folks like to be April-fooled all of the time.

The Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

save up for two weeks or a month in Florida's incomparable sunshine.

The calculators figure that upward of 3,000,000 such have come and gone, leaving behind them $365,000,000 in fresh folding money. All the way around they settle—Jacksonville, old St. Augustine, New Smyrna, Pal Beach, Fort Lauderdale, Miami, Sarasota, Tampa, Pensacola and hundreds of towns and inlets in between. March in Florida has been the cream of the season and many thousands will tarry through April.

Ponce de Leon landed just a little north of St. Augustine on Easter Sunday, March 27, 1513. Entranced by the gorgeous sunshine and beauty all around, he christened the discovery "La Florida." We can look back over four centuries and a quarter and see this Spanish gentleman in his suit of gleaming armor kneeling on the flower-margined strand to offer prayers, and then, while his right hand raised the cross-hilt of his sword, proclaiming his king's possession of the lands and bounds of La Florida. He did not find the fountain of youth, but millions who came after him, did find it.

ONLY SONS

Some friends of mine have a son who is something of a prodigy in their eyes, but his genius is apparent most in the way he keeps their home in an uproar. Every time I go there, I thank Heaven there aren't many of his kind about. Usually I go away feeling the parents are making a mistake in allowing him to grow up so eccentric and self-centered. Their son is "different", alright, but I'm afraid this difference that seems to them so admirable now may be something that wouldn't make them so proud, or their son so happy, later on.

I think that couples who have only one child—and, alas, their numbers are increasing—try harder than others to make geniuses of their offspring. There are a number of reasons why it is unfortunate to be an only child, and not the least important is that an only daughter or only son becomes the center of all the hopes and ambitions of the parents, with less chance of developing her or his own natural bent in life.

A few weeks ago a young man came to me to ask me if I could speak to his parents. His father and mother had determined that he should be a doctor. He wanted to do something with mechanics. His favorite hobby was monkeying with an old car he had. Medicine held no interest for him and yet his family were practically forcing him to go to medical college.

After the boy spoke to me, I thought about the matter for a long while before I spoke to the boy's mother and father. When I did, I could see that they resented my interference. I haven't heard yet whether I did the boy any good or not. I sincerely hope I did, for he will be a far better citizen if he is happy in some mechanical profession or trade than if he were unhappy as a medical man. I can just imagine a young doctor, disliking his work and being called out in the middle of a winter's night to drive five or ten miles in a sleigh to attend a sick person.

I know an only son who has set up practice now as a lawyer. He didn't care particularly for law, but his father and his grandfather were lawyers, and he was headed straight for a law school, almost as soon as he was born. Now, he isn't happy or successful as a lawyer. But he does love to build things. He would like to be a builder or a contractor and he certainly has a marked talent in that direction. Yet, there he is with his law office, and his father and grandfather both waiting for him to carry on their hopes and ambitions and achieve success in it. I hope that someday he may break loose and go the way he wants to, but chances are he won't. It's too late; it would mean too much uprooting and changing. Few have the courage to make such a change in their lives.

You know, I had a somewhat similar problem to face myself. I have a boy, an only son. His mother has been dead for fifteen years, so bringing him up has been my job exclusively. Now, my father was a physician, one of the pioneer medical men of the central part of the province of Ontario. He had a record of fifty years' service to the people when he died. So, if my boy had followed in his and my footsteps and become a doctor, I would have been happy—or at least, my pride would have been flattered.

I suppose I let the boy see that I wanted him to be a doctor. Then one day he came to me and laid his cards on the table. "Dad", he said, "I'll be a doctor, if you really want me to be, but I don't care much about it."

Of course, I was a bit taken back. I thought for a few minutes and then I told him: "Son, you be what you want to be."

So today he's in his third year in electrical engineering at the University of Toronto and he's a lot happier than if he were dissecting bodies in the medical school.

AROUND CITY HALL

City hall information: One of the man who watches health conditions here is Harold Dunlap, plumbing inspector. As soon as a plumbing job is installed in any house it is the duty of Dunlap to inspect the work and see that it has been done properly and according to law. Good plumbing fixtures and good workmanship go a long way to prevent disease....George Harper is the assistant fire chief. He served in that capacity during the former incumbency of Safety Director D. O. Davies....He has been in the department for many years....Eddie Devore, painter, is one of the eldest employes in service for the city....Charles Colnot has worked for the city "off and on" during the past score or more years. He started as motor mechanic and recently was assigned to head the garbage department. Due to his knowledge of motor apparatus the upkeep on motor equipment will be kept down. Howard Phillips, former superintendent, is at work at the garbage department. He is well versed in that job and is proving of great value to Colnot....April shower of school tax cards will occur within a few days, according to City Treasurer C. C. McKibben....Dame Spring apparently arrived today which means that Owen Fox will scamper here and there in an effort to ascertain how best he can beautify the various parks and plots....No application has been made by city officials to the Fish commission for fish to be placed in Cascade Lake at Cascade Park, according to Commissioner Charles French who was quizzed concerning this at the Sportsmen's banquet.

Several automobile accidents occurred during the week end. Several persons were injured. Violation of city ordinances were ascribed as the cause of several of the accidents. It is probable that city police will attempt to curb violation of the laws, mainly violation of stop signs...Sewer department employes cleared congestion from a storm sewer in Neshannock avenue yesterday...Saturday the bureau also had difficulty with a sewer in South Mill street...Police have been instructed to curb the theft of scrap iron from the old steel mill site.

Russia Launches Huge Arms Expansion Program

Defense Fund Is Almost Doubled

New Soviet Republic Is Created Out Of Ceded Finnish Territory

FINNISH LANGUAGE WILL BE OFFICIAL

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, April 1—Announcing a record-breaking 1940 defense budget of 57,000,000,000 rubles (about $11,500,000,000), Russia launched a huge arms expansion program today.

The budget was announced in the supreme Soviet (parliament) which created a new Soviet republic—the 12th in the U.S.S.R.—covering ceded Finnish territory and the Russian Carelian region.

The new defense estimates exceeded the 1939 appropriations by more than 40 per cent, indicating Russia is making preparations to meet possible involvement in the European war. The entire general 1940 budget called for expenditures of 179,700,000,000 rubles.

Says Finances Sound

Finance Commissar Vzeriev told cheering deputies that Russian finances are sound and estimated revenue for the new fiscal year at 182,200,000,000 rubles, exceeding estimated expenditures by more than 2,000,000,000. The income tax rate will be increased for persons earning more than 600 rubles a month.

The supreme Soviet unanimously adopted the law incorporating the ceded Finnish areas in the U.S.S.R. and joining them to Soviet Carelian districts in the "Carelian-Finnish Federal Soviet Socialist Republic" with an estimated population of approximately 1,500,000.

The new republic theoretically will have equality with the 11 others in the U.S.S.R. It will be entitled to its own autonomous parliament and cabinet and to proportionate representation in the supreme Soviet. Finnish will be the official language of the new republic.

Adequate Playground Facilities Are Stressed

Recently, at the Red Cross Chapter House, the Social Service Committee met. This committee includes every social agency in the city and county and has for its chief purpose the coordinating of all types of social service among the various agencies.

By means of these monthly meetings, each agency learns its responsibility towards other agencies and the part it must play in community welfare. It was thru the work of this committee that the Community Chest agreed to the establishment of a Council of Social Agencies in order to prevent the duplication of charitable and relief measures for individuals and families.

At the last meeting, the discussion centered about the need for play facilities for the young people of the city, especially the under-privileged. Statistics are available thru Frank Leonard and Rabbi Norman H. Diamond to prove that in cities where playgrounds are plentiful, the rate of juvenile delinquency is much lower. It can also be shown conclusively that even in particular areas of a given city, the non-playground sections produce more delinquency than those provided with such play space and equipment. Ultimately, it was agreed, the expenditure of monies for the purpose of providing playgrounds was a saving in that it reduced police interference to a minimum and added to the sense of responsibility of the boys and girls.

Statements from persons in public and private life indicate quite clearly that wherever organization under a trained leader, exists the neighborhood profits. The Social Service Committee plans to cantact as many individuals and organizations as possible to arouse sentiment in favor of better play facilities for New Castle youth. Rabbi Diamond, who presided at the meeting, will ask Frank Leonard, WPA Recreation Director, Robert Meerman, YMCA secretary, and John Fennessey, Boy Scout Executive to act for the committee in this project.

Rev. John Earl Myers, Jr., accepted the call offered sometime ago to fill the vacant pulpit at the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church. Rev. E. A. Shoemaker, moderator for the Seventh Ward church, received a telegram of acceptance from Rev. Myers, Saturday night.

The telegram instructed Rev. Shoemaker to notify the congregation Sunday morning of Rev. Myers' decision.

Rev. Myers is a senior student at Princeton Theological seminary and plans to graduate sometime during the middle of May. No time has yet been set for his arrival here to take over his official duties, but it is believed that he will do so about June 1.

The vacancy at the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church was created several months ago by the resignation of Rev. D. C. Schnebly, who accepted a call to the Colver, Pa., Presbyterian church.

G. O. Scheidemantle, Arthur H. Walker, Herman E. Alexander and Arthur C. Brown, along with members of the Session, comprise the pulpit committee, responsible for the selection of the minister. Mr. Scheidemantle is chairman of that group.

Rev. Myers is a resident of Pittsburgh, Pa.

City Progress Campaign Is Given Impetus

them are soul emotion, unction, conviction. The governor's address had them all.

Said he "the best of a community comes not in prosperity but in adversity. Beyond the hills the sun still shines.

"We must get back to the spirit of the pioneers. We may not have to meet the dangers of the savages but we do have problems peculiar to our age. We must look to ourselves. Let's not let George do it, let's more of the spirit that is apparent here tonight, the spirit that is revitalizing your community.

No Spellbinders

Nationally what America needs is a spell of working together instead of a spell binder trying to work a spell. We need to give the rest of the world a first class example of tending to our own business and tending to it properly. We need less of the idea of a super-government that can bring the more abundant life and more of the light that guided Benjamin Franklin when he said 'waste not, want not'.

"You did not meet your problem here by having some one pull open a drawer and take out a blue print and say 'let this be done.' You did not meet it by looking far from home and seeking roundabout means and devious ends. You did not meet it by singing hymns of hate against those who caused this special depression of yours or by suspicion and envy and contention among yourselves.

"You solved it by all working together for your mutual aims, by keeping your courage when the going was tough, by cutting your community coat to fit the cloth and most of all by correctly estimating those things which were just outside your door.

Acres Of Diamonds

"You found your acres of diamonds right here in your own community. You built what you have today out of the wreckage of what you had yesterday.

"That is what our nation needs to climb out of our national depression. We need to look accurately around us and rightly see that the opportunities for progress and happiness, for peace and prosperity are under our very noses. There was a time when the races looked to horizons for frontiers. It is different today. Our frontiers are in ourselves. It is in our own land and our own economy that our future security will be found."

Given Ovation

As the governor concluded his address the quiet of the moment was shattered with an ovation that was spontaneous and prolonged. The governor had assayed the situation, had given encouragement and inspiration by his words and he climaxed the dinner and the week's activities with an address that will be remembered.

The Pioneer dinner Saturday night was in many ways the most outstanding of the many outstanding dinner events held in the Cathedral. The mechanics of the dinner worked out with precision. The committees in charge of it had a well defined plan, they stuck to that plan and as a result the crowd was seated with no confusion, the special guests were escorted to their reserved tables in a body, and not once during the progress of the evening was there any variance from the plan. In this respect it is safe to say that no other dinner was ever handled as well.

Impressive Opening

As Governor James was escorted to his place at the speakers' table, Bugler Jim Finnessy, Jr., of the Boy Scouts brought the crowd to attention with his bugle.

The lights of the dining room were dimmed and during the opening exercises the lighted candles on the tables were the only illumination. Bugler Finnessy blew "To the Colors," as Roger Hawk advanced the flag. As the bugle ceased, Mrs. Marshall G. Matheny recited a tribute to the flag and was followed by Mrs. Isaack James of Aliquippa, Pa., who sang the Star Spangled Banner. Mrs. James is a former New Castle woman and has a voice powerful, vibrant and melodic. Her presentation was most effective. The opening exercises were planned and directed by Mrs. L. B. Round.

Rev. Fr. William F. Galvin, pastor of St. Mary's church, offered the invocation and the crowd prepared to enjoy a turkey dinner served by the Wimodausis. The dinner can be described in a few words, it was hot, it was well prepared, each plate had generous helpings and it was served quickly and efficiently.

Group Singing

Group singing during the dinner was directed by Mary Harvard of New Castle and Emrys Davis of Mercer with Daniel Heitger at the piano. Orchestra music was furnished by a group of ten musicians selected from the senior high school orchestra

The dinner over, General Chairman Norman E. Clark took little time introducing the toastmaster of the evening, Ross D. Rosenberger. Mr. Rosenberger handled his job well, wasted little time in pointless stories or persiflage.

The Brahms Ladies' Chorus had the first spot on the program, singing "A Spirit Flower" by Tipton and "Dedication" by Franz. David Rees directed the chorus with Julia E. White at the piano. The Brahms chorus is an institution in New Castle. Composed of skilled singers, their collective singing is beautifully done thanks in part to the skillful direction of Mr. Rees. Later the chorus sang, "The Snow" by Edgar and "The Kerry Dance" by Mallory.

Mayor Welcomes Crowd

Mayor Charles B. Mayne was introduced and made the address of welcome. Said the mayor:

"In my years of residence in New Castle, and that means since I was a three year old, I have never seen a group of people quite like this one tonight. There have been dinners attended by crowds as large, but never one in which there was such an unanimity of purpose.

All of us are gathered here tonight to pay tribute to the modern pioneers, the men who head up the many industries of our city and the adjoining townships. Gracing the affair tonight, we have with us, the governor of the commonwealth.

I am not a pioneer in the sense that I came over the mountains in a covered wagon, but I do know something from experience of the rigors of the pioneer. Back in 1898 I made a trip to Dawson on the Yukon as one of that band of adventurers who sought gold.

The spirit of the old time pioneers, we so admired, is not dead. We have the same high calibre of men here today, we have the same stout hearts, the same dogged determination. All we need to do in New Castle is believe in ourselves; in our city and in the opportunities that present themselves.

Pioneer Week was first suggested by your city council. The work of carrying out the details of the week's program was assigned to others and tonight I want to compliment them upon the way it was handled. This dinner tonight is the climax of an unusual week and as mayor of your city, I want to welcome all of you, and to say that if we go forward with the same initiative and determination that has marked the work of Pioneer Week, New Castle's future is assured.

The Purpose

Former State Senator George T. Weingartner was introduced and outlined the purpose of Pioneer Week and the dinner. He said in part:

"Pioneers" have only one way to go, and that is "forward".

To start on a journey, all the individual needs to do is to advance the right foot in front of the left, the left in front of the right and keep going, eyes and ears constantly alert, heads up, chin out, with faith, courage and consecrated devotion to the purpose in mind. To keep on keeping on, carried forward by the spirit within, long after the weary muscles have cried quits.

That's how our country was founded, that's how my people came here, and if our children are to build on the foundations we leave, just as we builded on the foundations our fathers left us, then we must exhibit the same courageous and unconquerable spirit that our fathers did.

Talk about a depression — our founding fathers started with one, and the fact that we are here tonight is direct testimony that they made good.

For years the economic barometer of our community has been "steel and tin", but not any more. Like the fellow who could not see the forest and the trees, we have been unmindful of the economic changes which have taken place in the last 40 years.

"Large oaks from small acorns grow," and while our attentions have been centered on the basic goods industries, like steel and tin, we have overlooked the little acorns planted 40 years ago, which today spell economic salvation. One hundred seven industries spell diversification and diversity of industry means more stable employment.

No power on earth can lick New Castle or any single individual in New Castle, except ourselves or his self.

And so, as a part of our revival, we pay tribute to these 107 industries, to the men and women who have nurtured them, to the men and women who have built into the product a part of that dependability which is our natural heritage.

There is no difference between us and our fathers except in degree and so, like Marshall Foch, we have determined to attack, we have determined that the time has come to go forward, to build on a more secure foundation of diversified industry for New Castle, while being at a disadvantage so far as the production of basic raw commodities is concerned, is ideally situated from the standpoint of consumption goods; that is, things people use all the time.

With the finest transportation facilities by rail or highway, good schools, good churches, forward looking labor, retail stores second to none, and a banking system with plenty of money for every legitimate banking need, what more do we need but to start. Believe me, we have started.

Male Chorus

The Civic Male Chorus was next heard in "Pale Moon" by Logan, and "Rolling Down to Rio" by Gorman. This chorus was built especially for the dinner program and was directed by A. Alfred Taylor. After hearing it perform most of the crowd hoped it would be continued as a part of our musical life here in New Castle for it did well. Later the chorus sang "A Dream" and "Soldiers' Chorus" from Faust by Gounod. E. E. Bransetter accompanied the chorus.

General Chairman Norman E. Clark was presented and presented the testimonial scrolls to the industrial leaders present. Prefacing the presentation he said.

The first and primary purpose of the Greater New Castle Association was to "sell New Castle to its citizens," and "second to publicize and sell this community to the nation."

When the Mayor and City Council called upon this committee from the Greater New Castle Association to foster and promote pioneer week, we welcomed and were glad to give the proposal our whole-hearted support.

This past week has brought to our realization as never before the potentialities that this community holds, and without question the facts about our local industries that have been dramatized and publicized during the past week have given our people new hope and courage, and revival of faith in the future progress of New Castle.

The problems confronting New Castle can only be solved if we have a united, sustained effort in supporting one major long-time program, but such a result is possible only when we, as residents, have faith and courage in ourselves.

This past week has made us extremely conscious of one thing, and that is that we have within our gates 107 local industries that are, week after week and month after month contributing to the economic prosperity of the community.

In the past, perhaps we have accepted this fact as a matter of course, and enough credit has not been given to these men who have pioneered in their particular lines of endeavor in order to provide payrolls for this city.

But tonight, as President of the GNCA, in behalf of the citizens of this community, we want to honor these men who have made this contributoin to our community welfare, and we have caused to be made this scroll of appreciation, which will be handed to the heads of each of these 107 industries. Our files have been very carefully checked and rechecked, but if perchance anyone has been missed, it is entirely unintentional, and any error will be corrected.

I shall now read the scroll. After making the scroll Mr. Clark concluded by saying,

Gentlemen, those are our sentiments of appreciation, and the citizens of this community wish you continued success in your various lines of endeavor, and we want to assure you that the Greater New Castle Association is at your service at all times, in any way you can use us. Our executives Vice President, Arthur H. Andrews, is intimately familiar with many of the problems of industry, and I am sure that he can render you much valuable assistance.

Rowland Presents Governor

Captain Roger W. Rowland, Secretary of Property and Supplies in the governor's cabinet was introduced and in turn presented Governor James. "Since I have been associated with the governor as one of his cabinet, I have had increasing respect for him" said he. "Before he was elected I thought he would make an efficient, sincere governor. In the past fifteen months he has more than fulfilled any ideas I had of him.

The concluding number of the program was the joint singing of "America" by the two choruses. As the last verse started Mr. Taylor turned and invited the audience to join. It did with vigor and the effect was an inspiring one. Rev. A. M. Stump concluded with the benediction.

To reiterate, the dinner Saturday night climaxed Pioneer Week and like a true climax it stood out at the very top of the week's achievements. It reflected credit not alone upon General Chairman Clark and Director of Activities W. Fulton Jackson but also those countless men and women who labored in the ranks of the committees. Their work was long arduous but the satisfaction of such a success must certainly assuage the weariness caused by their labors.

Beautiful Decorations

For the dinner the dining room was decorated in a manner that reminded one of some huge painting. The mass effect was one of beauty, of harmonious combinations, with never a jarring note and yet some attention should be paid to the details.

The speakers' table was gem. In front of it were pots of flame colored azeleas, with a background of laurel. On the table the base decoration was laurel, with huge boquets of American Beauty roses and white oak. In the center was a model of an old time Conestoga wagon. Hurricane crystal lamps and crystal candelabras reflected, diamond like, the lights of the room. The table cloth was of pale green and was floor length.

Directly across the hall from the speakers' table was a replica of an old log cabin, further down was an old time spinning wheel and a replica of Liberty Bell. At the west end was a huge likeness of Abraham Lincoln. On the walls of the room were a number of paintings, all the work of Ralph Galbreath, well known local artist.

The dining tables were decorated with the handiwork of students of the sixth grade of Thaddeus Stevens school, undr the supervision of Miss Louise Davies. Small conestoga wagons, colonial type churches, small pioneer figures of cardboard and laterally, running in a center line across the tables were candelabras. On each side of the stage containing the speakers' table were colonial columns in white. The work of decorating the hall was one of creative genius and a wealth of detail. The committee headed by Mrs. L. B. Round did an exceptional job.

Seating Carefully Done

The seating of the guests was done in a manner that obviated confusion. The industrial heads and their wives were segregated in the east lodge room and each one given a white carnation. The general public was seated as it arrived, thus avoiding the usual crowding in the lobby.

The special guests were taken down in a body to their tables and later the guests at the speakers table were ushered to the dining room. Then the governor, escorted by Captain Rowland. The handling of the guests and the governor party was in charge of the reception committee headed by Fred L. Rentz.

There may be dinners in the Cathedral in the future that will equal or surpass that of Saturday night. But to do it will require first of all an equal incentive and second a group of committees that will work as well in concert as did the committees handling the Pioneer Dinner. It was a classic of inspired collective labor.

Fewer Arrests Are Made In Ellwood

Boro Managers Report Gives Records Of Police And Firemen For 1939

ELLWOOD CITY, April 1—According to the police activity report contained in the annual summary made by boro manager, Lowell W. Monroe, there were 283 arrests in the city in 1939 compared with 442 for 1938.

In the classification of arrests there were three robberies, 36 burglaries, 42 larcenies and 5 auto thefts.

An ordinance enacted and adopted by Council which provided for the registering and issuing of registration plates to all owners of bicycles has been of real benefit. Since this ordinance was passed all bicycles reported to the police as lost or stolen were recovered which was more than was hoped for in the beginning.

There is another activity which is sponsored and managed by the Phalanx Fraternity and co-endorsed by the Department, Council and the Women's Club, a sort of Saturday Night boy's club, the aim and purpose of which is to take the boy off the street and provide him with directed self participated amusement and light refreshments. During the late fall, winter and early spring months the average attendance has been around 90 boys a night. It is the general belief that a great amount of petty crime has been eliminated by this means. The basement rooms of the city building are given over for this purpose.

Complaints to the police were largely that of a non-criminal nature except for a series of robberies that occurred periodically, the details of which were practically identical in each case, indicating that each was committed by the same individual or group. However, these particular robberies stopped suddenly when one, Walter Rausch, a patrolee, was wounded on September 17, 1939 as he was being questioned by an officer. He died the following day. It can not definitely be stated that this person was responsible for any or all of the robberies above referred to, the only thing known is that this particular type of crime has stopped for the time being. However, aside from his particular case the work of the police was largely routine duty, traffic duty, petty crime investigation.

Fire Department

In the fire department report for 1939 there were 34 alarms with the total loss and damage being estimated at $2,140. The per capita loss was .17 and amount paid for volunteer firemen was $932.

Seventeen of the above alarms resulted in no property damage. In addition to the above total number of alarms there were eight calls answered on what is termed a "still" alarm basas and three calls fro out side the corporate limits 1750 lin. feet of 2½ inch hose, 1250 lin. feet of one inch (booster) hose, and 175 lin. feet of ladder was used by the department during the year in its work of protecting property. The value of property in which fires were reported and extinguished was estimated to be $145,000.00.

The Beaver Valley Volunteer Firemen conducted a school for all persons interested in the proceedure and technique of fighting fires, the placing and handling of equipment, salvage equipment and methods to injured, etc., which closed with a public demonstration at Beaver in June. Another similar school is planned for next year.

An emergency squad or unit was organized within the local volunteer organization which when completely organized and equipped will be able to render emergency first aid service, life saving service, etc., to this community at any time an emergency may arise.

The Ellwood City Volunteer Fire Department was host to the Western Pennsylvania Volunteer Firemen's Association in August when its annual convention was held in Ellwood City. This was the first time in the history of Ellwood City when this organization honored Ellwood City with its annual convention.

There were 400 inspections made of business houses during the year, primarily for the purpose of keeping cellars, back rooms, etc., free from discarded combustible used packing material.

Hadassah Society Has Lovely Dinner

Local Chapter Commemorates 28th Anniversary Of National Organization

ELLWOOD CITY, April 1.—Commemorating the 28th birthday anniversary of Hadassah in America, members of the local Hadassah society gathered last evening in the assembly room of the city building for a most delightful dinner.

From Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, some 135 guests participated. The affair began with the serving of a sumptuous dinner at long tables beautifully decorated with blue and white appointments with low arrangements of flowers adding further charm to the setting. Individual birthday cakes marked each place.

Mrs. Louis Garson, president of the local unit, presided and presented Rabbi H. Stollman, of the Tree of Life Synagogue, who offered the invocation. After the dinner, Mrs. Garson explained the significance of Hadassah, which is the oldest women's Zionist organization in America and takes it name from Esther, beloved heroine of old Testament history.

The charming toastmistress was Mrs. Abe Greenburg, who added a note of gayety to the celebration as she had each guest light the birthday candles. Miss Harriet Libson, of Ambridge, delighted the group with two lovely piano selections.

The guest speaker was Saul Spiro, president of the Pittsburgh Zionist organization. Mr. Spiro gave a very fine talk in which he stated that Palestine is needed more than every today as a homeland for unfortuate Jews. The beginning of Zionism was traced by Mr. Spiro. After the singing of "Hatikvah", Rabbi Stollman offered the benediction.

Among the notables guests introduced were: Harry Caplan, president of the Tree of Life congregation; Max Groden, president of B'Nai B'Rith; Mrs. Louis Konn, New Castle, founder of the Ellwood chapter; and Morris Samuels, president of the New Castle congregation.

Much credit for the fine success of the celebration is due the following members: Mrs. Ben Balter, dinner chairman; Mrs. Frank Sternberg and Mrs. David Shapiro, arrangements; Mrs. Max Groden, decoration; and Mrs. Max Reinhart and Mrs. Abe Greenburg, program.

Cubs Will Have To Hurry This Year For First Division Berth

Finished Fourth Last Year, Gabby Hartnett More Sure Of Himself

Outfield Is None Too Strong As 1940 Race Is About To Begin

By HAROLD HEROUX
International News Service Sports Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. April 1.—Their California workouts behind them, Gabby Hartnett and his Chicago Cubs today were headed eastward for the National League campaign in which they probably will have to exert themselves to finish in the first division.

The Cubs cannot be rated the equal of the St. Louis Cardinals or Cincinnati Reds, and at the present writing, also not with the Pittsburgh Pirates or Brooklyn Dodgers, either.

Hartnett, who is again going to be the No. 1 Cub backstop, with Al Todd and Bob Collins his alternates, has numerous worries.

One of the Cubs' problems is the outfield, but Hartnett expects Augie Galan, Hank Leiber and Dominic Dallessandro to fill the bill. Galan has recovered from a knee injury, Leiber is rounding into form after his long holdout siege and Dallessandro is the ex-hitting champion of the Pacific Coast League.

Depend On Sturgeon

Jim Gleeson and Bill Nicholson are two good alternate outfielders.

The infield seems to depend on 20-year-old Bob Sturgeon, up from Columbus, making the grade at shortstop. Rip Russell, the newlywed, is set at first base; Billy Herman at second and Stan Hack at third. Bobby Mattick, shortstop, Phil Cavarretta at first, and Bill Roggell, utility, give Hartnett a good set of reserves.

Clay Bryant's comeback strengthened the pitching problem. The great Dizzy Dean may come through, but nobody is willing to wager any money that he will.

Two young southpaws, Verne Olsen from Tulsa and Ken Raffensberger from Rochester, look good. Bill Lee, winner of 19 games last season, and Claude Passeau are Hartnett's best righthanders. The veterans, Charley Root and Vance Page, are expected to get their quota of victories.

The club spirit has improved and Hartnett seems more impressive as a leader, but the most enthusiastic Cubs' follower admits Hartnett's team will be lucky to finish fourth, the spot in which they finished last year, their lowest windup in more than a decade.

There appears to be too many "ifs" about the team—if Dean can come through, if Hack finds his winter operation didn't take too much out of him, if Galan's knee holds up, etc.

Sports World Ramblings

Local bowling bits—A split, in the opening frame, recently blasted Toney Fair's dream of rolling a perfect score in tenpins. The south side kegler flattened nine sticks in the first chukker and then proceeded to pile up 11 straight strikes for a 279 score. Mont Morrow, West Pittsburg ace, rolled a similar score about two months ago.

"Lefty" Robinson and George Sargent were part of an odd kegling incident. Bowling on opposite teams, the pair tumbled identical scores of 267....Earl McCormick went wild not long ago, recording a 674 total for three games. If Earl can duplicate the feat in the A. B. C. in about a week, Lawrence county will be sure to get some of that quarter million dollar jack pot.

Morning mail—I am sending some dope on Charles Francis, a George Washington junior high product, who deserves recognition. Francis participated in football and basketball but was forced on his back, while at senior high, due to an operation. He plays a fast game at guard in basketball and tackle in football. He is one of the finest boys Washington has turned out. This paragraph in your column will be appreciated. A Fan. It's a pleasure to boost a promising lad.

The Paychek affair—Last Friday's bizarre, or whatever you care to call it lends further credence to the belief that something is lacking in boxing. Perhaps Jack Dempsey's plan, calling for some kind of an investigation, may give the game the proper shot in the arm. As things are rolling along, these titular bouts get funnier as they go along. The latest joke set a new low for title fights. The game is bound to suffer. The fans will tire, or will they?

The customers are to blame. They seem to patronize anything billed as a title fight. Consequently, the power behind the throne doesn't have to concentrate too much on the presentation. Let a few of these things that shouldn't have been, flop, and we have a hunch the men behind the switches will give more thought and consideration, unless they are in business to lose money, and who wants to do that. Mike Jacobs? Oh, no!

Bits of this and that—Idle thought: It didn't take Joe Louis long to cash Paychek...Louis' victory over Paychek didn't prove a thing. The champ was sent in against a guy who was shaking more freely than a leaf caught in a hurricane...With the latest third rater out of the road, Joe Louis must concentrate on annihilating Billy 'Boils' Conn. Of the lot, Conn stands the best chance of winning the title, because the Pittsburgher is a streamlined moving being.

Stock Market Trend Higher

Gains Made During Morning Trading Are Small However

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 1.—The stock market improved further today but aside from aviation and specialty issues gains were extremely small.

Stocks were higher from the opening, but progress was slowed by light profit-taking in the second hour. Many representative issues held around Saturday's final quotations.

American Air Lines spurted more than 2 points, while Eastern gained half as much and United almost a point. All were at new highs for the year, as was Lockheed in the aircraft manufacturing group on a fractional rise. Douglas, United Aircraft and Boeing also chalked up fair-sized gains.

Steels continued firm. U. S. Steel advanced about a half-point along with Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

Motors, electrical equipments, utilities, chemicals and most coppers were barely changed from previous closing levels.

McKesson & Robbins common and preferred, readmitted to trading last week after a 16-month suspension, again were strong. The senior issues climbed more than a point, with the common up almost as much. Loft also continued active with a half-point advance.

Among the few laggards were B. M. T., Air Reduction, Eastman Kodak and Lorillard.

Commodities were quiet and little changed, except for a runup of almost a cent a bushel in wheat futures. Foreign security markets turned upward under the lead of a brisk rise on the Paris Bourse.

Civil Court Session Opens

Trial Of Two Cases Started During Morning—Some Jurors Excused

Civil court opened today in the Lawrence county courthouse with two damage suits being started before Judges W. Walter Braham and Thomas W. Dickey. In courtroom number one the case of Joseph Hanrahan, administrator in the estate of the late Helen Hanrahan, his wife, against Mrs. Amelia Driver was started.

On August 20, 1938, Mr. and Mrs. Hanrahan and infant daughter, Suzanne, were driving south on Albert street. At the same time Mrs. Driver was driving east on Sheridan avenue. The two cars met in the intersection and Mrs. Hanrahan was killed. Mr. Hanrahan asks damages in behalf of his minor children.

In courtroom number two the case of Fred A. Green and Alberta Green against the county of Lawrence was started. This case is one in which damages are asked due to a road improvement in the Harbor district. The plaintiffs claim their property was damaged when the roads 37078 and 37079 were improved. The jury was taken out to the Green property to see for themselves what had happened.

A number of jurors were excused before the term started today, and several were excused by the court this morning. The list of jurors called but who will not serve, follows: Fred Andreson, laborer, Taylor township; George Baker, Jr., laborer, Big Beaver township; Louis Beckert, trucker, Shenango township; Frank Bower, mechanic, third ward; Hattie Boyd, housekeeper, Pulaski township; Clyde Campbell, agent, second ward; Marie G. MAIL SERVICE IS CAUSE FOR PEEVE

(International News Service)

ALDAN, Pa., April 1. — Residents of this Delaware County community are "sore" at the U. S. Postal Department, Clifton Heights and at the near-namesake town of Alden, Luzerne County.

They're mad at Uncle Sam because he refuses to establish a post-office branch at Aldan. The old gentleman examined that inclusion of both Aldan and Alden in the postal guide would be confusing.

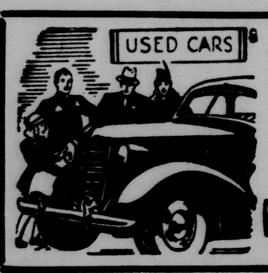

The homefolks are peeved at Alden because that borough has only 1,000 residents to Aldan's 2,000. They're angry at nearby Clifton Heights because they have to get their mail there.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Those who attended the Pioneer Banquet Saturday night witnessed a party that will be carried down in the history books of New Castle. First of all every one present will remember how wonderful the banquet hall looked, and credit for this goes to Mrs. L. B. Round and her able committee . . . nothing finer has been done in New Castle. The program was well planned and the Governor of the Commonwealth, Arthur James, filled the evening chuck full . . . we feel sure that New Castle citizens will continue the spirit that has been started the past two weeks . . . and with everyone's full cooperation New Castle will prosper.

Mr. Motorist . . . there are signs about town which read . . . "STOP, Through STREET" . . . and these signs mean just what they say . . . too many folks are disregarding this warning and the result is that accidents occur. Now that spring is here and the urge to drive more is in the air . . . think carefully at all times. If you don't give a hoot about your own life think about the other fellow . . . he might be some little girl's daddy.

* * *

The sportsmen who can't wait until trout season opens was out over the week trying their luck at sucker fishing . . . some were fortunate and caught a few . . . but in most places the streams were too high and all the fisherman got was wet feet. But as has been said before . . . it's good just to get out in the air.

* * *

No doubt by the time you read this column the spirit of April First will be well worn . . . but April Fools Day comes but once a year and a little good clean fun never hurt anyone . . . to be able to smile and laugh is a great thing although we know some people who seem to have a terrible time working up a smile. One only gets out of life what they put into it . . . that is why some people are always complaining.

* * *

Isn't it queer how some men become so very friendly when election time comes around . . . especially if they are running for an office. They would do much better if they would be friendly the year 'round.

CENSUS TAKING START DELAYED IN NEW CASTLE

subjects of population, housing and agriculture—as will the counting of some 120,000 census-takers throughout the nation.

Tomorrow's report visit of the enumerators will be simple—each worker will get his or her assignment to an enumeration district, meet the squad leader and receive his or her portfolio. The actual canvass will start Wednesday morning.

The workers, if they choose, may work day and night, and on Sundays, to complete their census-taking task.

Headquarters Rushed

District Supervisor Venger and Mrs. Frank Stevens, assistant supervisor, were busy with headquarters, aides today completing preparations for The Count. Last week Venger gave instructions to the tri-county group at three separate instruction conferences.

Two weeks has been set aside by Uncle Sam to the population count in the city, while a month will be given to the agricultural census.

The major departure from the census of former decades is the new census of housing, included by an act of congress. In this survey the government will attempt to furnish builders and others a more complete picture of living conditions of Americans.

New Questions Included

New questions in this 16th census of the nation's population, it was pointed out, include the highest grade of school completed, the place of residence of April 1, 1935, income up to $5,000 and particulars about employment and unemployment.

Answers to all questions, Supervisor Venger stressed, will be held in the strictest confidence and not even the federal department of justice nor the income tax investigators will be allowed to inspect the reports. The answers are for the statistical work of the Department of Commerce's bureau of census alone.

Chevrolet-Olds Firm Moves Today

Chevrolet Keystone Co. Acquires Huge Shenango Motor Building Again

The Chevrolet Keystone Co., Chevrolet and Oldsmobile dealer in this territory, today occupied its new headquarters in the old Shenango Motor building at 210 West Washington street—across the Shenango river bridge from the P. & L. E.-Erie railroad depot.

Two and a half years ago Chevrolet Keystone was located in that building, but for some time since has been at 426 North Croton avenue.

Today the Chevrolet Keystone organization has a payroll of 42, Pfau announced.

Within 10 days the company will make an important spring announcement and play host to the public at a formal showing of the full line of 1940 Chevrolets and Oldsmobiles in its spacious display rooms.

AUSTRALIAN NEIGHBORLINESS

Seventy neighbors of Arthur Brain, veteran of the Camel Corps in the World War, joined in a working bee to plow his 200 acres in the Mallee wheat district of Australia when he was rendered helpless by arthritis, it is reported at Sydney. He sat in a wheel chair with the youngest of his four children on his knee and watched. The bee was organized by two neighbors who could not bear to see him lose his farm. Fifteen tractors completed the work in a single day. By 7 o'clock the whole area was plowed ready to be sown. Among the workers were two pioneers, one 70 years old and the other 84 years old. His neighbors also sowed for Brain an adjoining field with wheat and oats.

The king is 44 years old. The King and Queen Elizabeth are pictured above as they bid farewell to the clergy at the abbey following the ceremony which took place in the historic old structure.

MAURETANIA SLIPS THROUGH CANAL, PACIFIC-BOUND

—Central Press Phonephoto

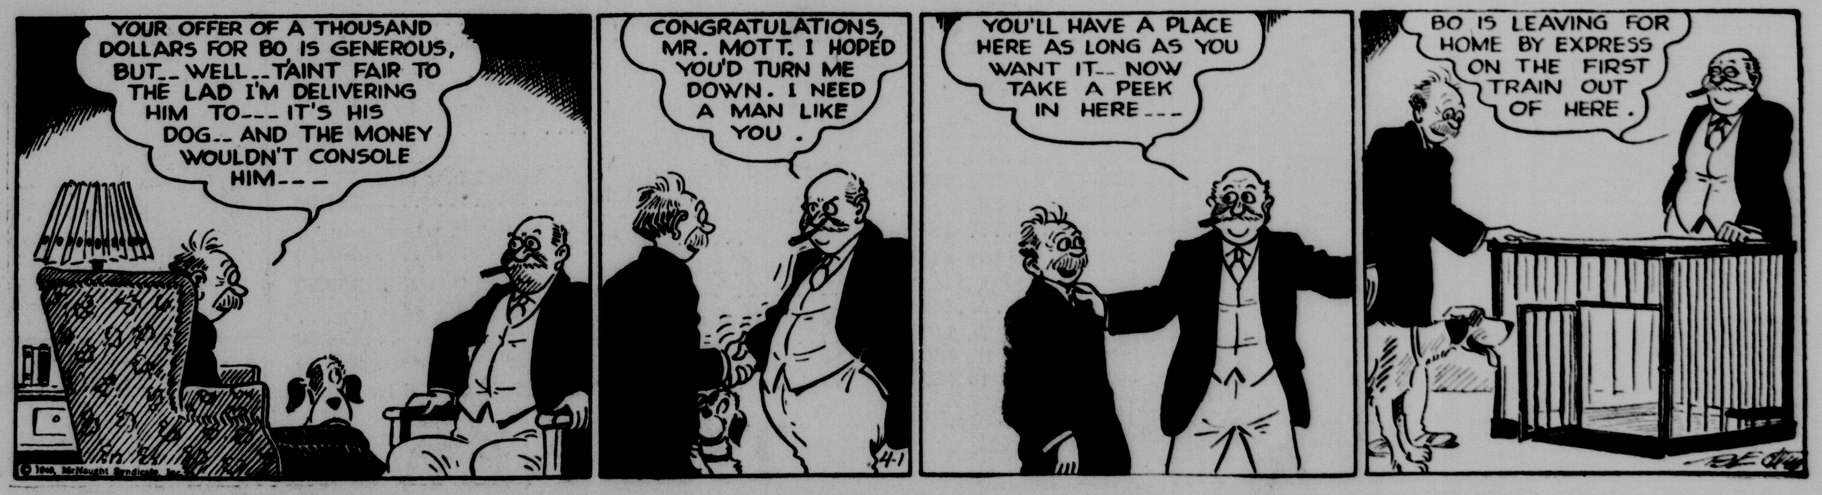

Far from the safety of New York harbor which sheltered her since the outbreak of the war, the British luxury liner Mauretania is pictured above as the vessel went through the Gaillard cut of the Panama canal, presumably bound for Australia where the ship is expected to be put into service as a troop transport. The Queen Mary is also on the high seas on a probably similar mission.

CALL ON ME for HELP!

"When tortured by nagging, persistent itching and burning due to eczema, or some other, externally caused, skin irritation, I'm the one that can bring you welcome relief," says Resinol.

Combining in an oily base, ingredients known and used effectively by many doctors, this soothing ointment goes into action at once when applied to irritated skin. Being oily, its medication stays in contact with the affected parts--easing stinging soreness, lessening the desire to scratch--and thus aids healing. For gentle cleansing Resinol Soap is excellent.
